Inclusiveness in Christ is what the Episcopal Church is about
There are two great Commandments and we have lost the first and greatest Dissension hurts: God loves
LOVE ONE ANOTHER
Inequality in the Church should be resisted Black/white, male/female, straight/gay
Why can't we be a nation of people who resist putting others in blocks (categories). We are all growing and changing
Issue of justice in all human relationships, not only gay
I am a black minority but we are all one, all God's children. We don't look for differences in each other
Need discussion/need patience/my understanding has changed since October. We should not have had a special convention in October/should take time and pray
Appeal to the bishop's better side; support his leadership but he must make room for us.
Create a witness to positive vision
We can be a healing force in the church
Need a place of healing wounds of anger and pain
Pressure for recognition of same sex unions has been building for many years. I do not understand how that could possibly be marriage. Still, I want to be an Episcopalian...same as always
I want to continue in fellowship...differing opinions do not bother me...community is what is important.
My father was an Episcopal priest. I want to see this worked out
Don't like the idea of division
I want to preserve Unity
I'm in the middle...don't want to see a split
Compromise is scary in theology; consensus is a better word
Unity and survival are connected issues
Takes time to get over...patience, prayer, study
Behold, how good and pleasant it is for brothers to live in unity
